Teaching Skills to Last a Lifetime

Del Medenbach, Lyle Secondary School's new shop/CTE teacher, has a lifelong background in carpentry and construction, and strongly believes in the value of hands-on learning.

Del is originally from the Willamette Valley, but he, his wife and two sons have called the Columbia Gorge home for the past six years. He has taught a variety of grades and subjects in schools from Dubai, United Arab Emirates, to White Salmon, where he taught 6th grade at Henkle Middle School and, later, Metal Shop at Columbia High School.

Del explains, "Ever since becoming a teacher in 2009, I've had my eye out for a shop teacher opportunity. That opportunity presented itself in 2016. I taught Metal Shop on a temporary basis, got my CTE (Career and Technical Education) certification from Central Washington University and luckily found a place to teach shop classes here at Lyle."

"I feel that all of my experience as a carpenter, contractor, teacher, Outward Bound instructor and life-long tinkerer has prepared me for this very important and exciting work. I look forward to guiding students to create, learn and have a great time in the woodshop this year," he adds.

Del says his time as an Outward Bound instructor radically changed his view on education because he witnessed how experiences can shape what student know and understand about the world around them.

As an adult, Dell says he's always fallen back on my carpentry skills when needed and, besides providing a living, his skills allowed him to work in Antarctica, own his own business and remodel his own homes. "When I finally got the chance to become a shop teacher, I jumped at the chance," Del added. "It's the perfect blend on academic and hands-on learning."

Del is actively seeking to expand the shop program in Lyle. This semester, he's teaching a basic wood shop class and a construction class where students practice skills like carpentry, flooring and cabinetry. He's also teaching a STEM class in which students will build their own ukulele similar to the three-string cigar box guitar he recently built.

A little bit about CTE: What used to be called Vocational Education is now known as Career and Technical Education, or CTE. With an emphasis on real life skills, CTE helps students make the connection between the real world and academics. Often, a CTE class is the place where the "lightbulb comes on" for students who don't excel in math or science in a classroom setting. CTE classes are a gateway to good-paying jobs that don't require a four-year degree, too.

If you'd like to know more about CTE, check out this page:

Book Report

By Judy Bane

"Twisted Prey" by John Sandford

"Lucas Davenport confronts an old nemesis, now a powerful U.S. senator, in the thrilling new novel in the #1 New York Times-best-selling Prey series. Lucas Davenport had crossed paths with her before. A rich psychopath, Taryn Grant had run successfully for the U.S. Senate, where Lucas had predicted she'd fit right in. He was also convinced that she'd been responsible for three murders, though he'd never been able to prove it. Once a psychopath had gotten that kind of rush, though, he or she often needed another fix, so he figured he might be seeing her again. He was right. A federal marshal now, with a very wide scope of investigation, he's heard rumors that Grant has found her seat on the Senate intelligence committee, and the contacts she's made from it, to be very ... useful. Pinning those rumors down was likely to be just as difficult as before, and considerably more dangerous. But they had unfinished business, he and Grant. One way or the other, he was going to see it through to the end"

John Sandford is a favorite author of mine. Well written, easy to read and an engaging well told story. You can't go wrong with this guy.

Columbia Gorge Genealogical Society

October 20, 2018

The Columbia Gorge Genealogical Society and the Family History Center are co-sponsoring a FREE Family History Workshop on Saturday, October 20, 2018 at The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day-Saints in Hood River.

The workshop is for all levels of genealogy research from beginners to advanced.

There will be door prizes and lunch may be purchased for $5.00 or you may bring your own.

Classes include Beginning Genealogy, DNA, using foreign records, using Facebook for family history and more.

The church is located on 1825 May Street in Hood River. Registration begins at 8:30am, workshop begins at 9:00am and runs till 2:00pm. Public is welcome!

Singers Wanted

Cascade Singers community choir is beginning its fall season. The Singers meet under the direction of Miles Thoming-Gale, filling in for long-time director Lloyd Walworth. Rehearsals take place Sundays from 7 to 9 p.m. at Zion Lutheran Church, 10th and Union Streets, in The Dalles. One-hour work sessions also happen Thursdays at 7 p.m. at First United Methodist Church. The fall project is preparation for a holiday concert in December. Rehearsals are open to all interested singers. The choir often appears at community events, with formal concerts at Christmas, St. Patrick's Day, and late spring.

New State Library Partnership Provides Access To Thousands Of News Sources

Students, teachers, and patrons of public libraries can now read and research information from more than 11,000 news sources thanks to a new partnership between the Washington State Library and NewsBank Inc.

The partnership brings NewsBank's Access World News Research Collection to libraries throughout Washington. It is the most comprehensive news product NewsBank offers, featuring publications from around the world as well as 134 sources in Washington state, from The Spokesman-Review to the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and The Bellingham Herald.

"This will be a huge benefit to the academic community as well as independent researchers throughout Washington," State Librarian Cindy Aden said. "With thousands of newly-accessible sources of information that we can provide via libraries across the state, people will be able to read and search great journalism from Washington and the world going back decades."

Access to this collection will be available for Washington's nonprofit public, community, and technical colleges; public school libraries; and the Washington State Library until Dec. 31, 2019. The cost for this project is underwritten by the Washington State Library, using federal Library Services and Technology Act funds made available by the Institute of Museum and Library Service.

Community Council Corner

By Pj Sisseck

Community Council Report for Meeting 13 September 2018

Frank T. Hewey, Code Compliance Officer with the Klickitat County Building Department, was our guest speaker. He issued a map showing locations of fifteen active cases in the Dallesport area, ranging from RVs being used as residences outside of approved parks, trash, demolition debris, excess and non-running vehicles, and nuisance complaints such as noise and vermin.

He explained that his department is complaint-driven, meaning if you do not report your concerns, he cannot act on them. One can make their complaints anonymously, and all complaints are considered confidential. It is required that the Complainant live within five miles of the offending property, and that a proper form be used.

Mr. Hewey is "not in the business of making people homeless", and does follow a process of remediation. If the situation can be cleaned up to the satisfaction of the Code, the complaint is dismissed. But sometimes it comes down to eviction of persons who will not comply with the regulations. One of these evictions occurred recently, because the situation had become dangerous to the neighborhood. Note to property owners and landlords – you are liable should there be an injury traced to the condition of your rental unit, so do monitor your tenants, please!

A great deal of expense goes into abatement of hazardous situations. The current county budget is $22,000 – already spent for the year, mostly on one site. The budget increases to $130,000 next year, which is significant. But, there are currently 185 cases under investigation throughout Klickitat County (and one very busy person trying to catch up on the backlog). In the ten months Frank Hewey has been on the job, he has made significant progress on a very difficult matter.

More information and forms can be found on the Klickitat County website.

<http://www.klickitatcounty.org/211/Code-Compliance>

The Small Arms Range is around 30% complete, with a target (pun intended) opening date of around 1 December. Additional baffles are being mounted, creating a "no blue sky" venue, so no lead will leave the range. There are to be ten rifle positions, and five pistol positions. Staffing will be by the Sheriff's Posse, with additional volunteers to be trained in all safety regulations.

The next meeting of the Dallesport-Murdock Community Council is scheduled for 11 October, 7 PM, Community Center on 6th. If you are interested in running for one of three positions with terms expiring this year, do come to the meeting, and toss your name in the hat! Elections are scheduled for the November meeting.

Upcoming Council Elections

Each year, 3 positions on the 9-person community council are up for election. This year Bill Clark, MaryAnn Pauline, and Caleb Hotchkiss have their terms expiring. All have expressed an interest in running for re-election. The elections are held prior to the November Council meeting. Intent to run must be submitted to the Council on or before the October meeting. Write-ins are accepted on Election Day. Eligibility for the council include being a resident, real estate leaseholder and/or property owner living in the Dallesport/Murdock community for at least 6 months and be a registered voter in good standing in the community. If you are interested, look for the notice and form in the post office or contact Kim McCartney at kmccartney@charter.net or 509-594-6195 to register your desire to be on the council.

Dallesport Thieves

There have been several reports of bags of bottles and cans being stolen out of the yards of Dallesport residents. If you expect to get your deposit refund it would be wise that you keep them in a safe place such as your garage, the trunk of your car, or inside your home. Also, if you rinse them before bagging, they won't attract insects, and won't be messy when they are returned for the deposit refund, or recycled.

There have been increased car prowls too, so be sure not to leave any valuables in your car, and keep the doors locked.

Nationwide Wireless Emergency Alert Test

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), in coordination with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), will conduct a nationwide combined test of the Wireless Emergency Alert (WEA) and Emergency Alert System (EAS) on Oct. 3, 2018.

At 2:18 p.m. EDT on Oct. 3, FEMA will begin sending a WEA test message to WEA-capable wireless devices, and most handsets will receive the alert within a few minutes. The test message will state: "THIS IS A TEST of the National Wireless Emergency Alert System. No action is needed." The alert will have a special tone and vibration that will repeat twice. There is no charge to receive the message.

This will be the first national WEA test. More information is available at <https://www.fema.gov/emergency-alert-test>.

Mt Adams Transportation New Fixed Bus Routes

A young family boards the Mt. Adams Transportation Service bus at Pioneer Center. The bus system now runs from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., with stops in White Salmon, Bingen, and Hood River. (photo by Sharon Carter)

By Ken Park

The wheels on the bus go around and round, round and round. The wheels on the bus go around and round, all through the Gorge!

That's right, as of Sept. 3, Mt. Adams Transportation Service has a fixed bus route for all residents that goes from White Salmon to Bingen to Hood River, making roughly 10 loops to designated bus stops a day. The bus will run from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday-Friday, and the fare will cost $1; children under 6 are free. A second route that goes from Goldendale to The Dalles began on Sept. 4.

"These new fixed-route services are made possible through the Washington State Department of Transportation Regional Mobility Grant that we were awarded, as well as support for matching funds from Klickitat County. The project is designed to improve connectivity between counties and regional population centers and reduce rural inaccessibility by providing operating assistance for new fixed service bus routes that increases access to employment, medical services, education, shopping, and other aspects crucial to quality of life," said Sharon Carter, director of Mt. Adams Transportation Services.

These new bus routes will connect riders with other public transit services, such as the Columbia Area Transit (CAT) and the Columbia River Express (CRE) that can take travelers into other areas in the Columbia River Gorge, as well as Portland and Vancouver.

"Klickitat County has worked very hard to create an accessible, efficient and easy to use transit system, which isn't easy to do in rural areas like this, but is absolutely necessary," said Kathy Fitzpatrick, mobility manager for Mid-Columbia Economic Development District.

"Adding this transit option to our communities will give people a new level of freedom and access that they didn't have before. Seniors, folks with disabilities or suspended licenses, kids and those who chose not to drive, now have a cost-effective option to get where they need to go, whether that's a trip to the doctor, school or the grocery store," said Fitzpatrick.

Prior to this new bus system, people would use the Dial-A-Ride bus, which wasn't very reliable.

In terms of the bus fare, for those who don't carry cash on them, there is a smartphone app called Hopthru, where you can purchase tickets to be scanned when you board the bus. Eventually, there will be physical bus passes available to individuals; employers can buy annual passes for their employees as well.

"Housing is a big issue in the Gorge, many people work in this area but can't afford to live here so they commute from other areas, this new transit system gives another option to those commuters," said Fitzpatrick.

More urban areas, like Portland, Seattle, and Los Angeles have been working hard at making their cities more public transit or ride-sharing friendly, both to reduce traffic and address the impact on the environment by individually driven cars. Los Angeles recently introduced electric scooters to its city streets, while Portland and Seattle have been experimenting with bikes its citizens can rent, as well as access to ride-sharing companies like Uber and Lyft.

So, the question remains, what is the future of transportation for White Salmon, Bingen and other rural areas in trying to address public transportation?

"The future of transportation in our communities is not just this bus system, there are other alternatives we would like to see, but for now making the bus system successful is the first priority," said Fitzpatrick.

For more information about the Mt. Adams Transit System, you can check out their website at <http://www.gorgetranslink.com/> or the county website <https://www.klickitatcounty.org/363/Mount-Adams-Transportation-Service-MATS>.

We're Having a House Warming!

In a small district like Lyle, the staff has to work hard to provide exciting electives for our students. This year, we're very fortunate to have hired a multi-talented person, Ms. Katie Gibson, who teaches a state-required core subject, mathematics, and who is also certified to teach an elective that we haven't been able to offer in a while.

If you've never heard of Family and Consumer Science Education (FACSE), you'll probably recognize it by its former name, Home Economics. Ms. Gibson is teaching 20 high school students in two periods of FACSE this semester, with a focus on culinary skills. Some of the areas she will focus on this year are Food handlers' qualifications; Job/employment skills; food preparation and presentation; nutrition and dietary planning; budgeting, and other life skills. And she'll also teach middle school math classes every day.

Ms. Gibson has thoroughly searched the old Home Ec room and found a lot of usable equipment – but there are quite a few items still needed. So, we thought, wouldn't it be fun to throw a virtual housewarming for the new FACSE classes? Right!

Katie has identified the most-needed equipment. She has already received donations of a refrigerator, two microwaves and a blender, so we're off to a great start.

If you can provide any of the following items, email her at Katie.gibson@lyleschools.org. Thanks!

Things we need:

1 microwave	3 sets large and small rubber scrapers
3 electric griddles	Steel wool (SOS Brillo type)
1 toaster	Broom
Any other small kitchen appliances people want to donate (already have blenders, crock pots and hand held mixers)	Dust pan
Baking (cookie) sheets	Dish soap
Cake pans (round, square, rectangle)	Fingernail brushes
2 and 4 cup glass liquid measuring cups	Laundry detergent
3 sets of good quality knives	Liquid bleach
3 Cooking thermometers	Dryer sheets
3 basters	Ziploc type bags (sandwich, quart and gallon size)
	Parchment paper
	Paper bowls and plates
