Life Flight at Dallesport keeps 24-hour shifts

Edith Gridley
for The Sentinel

SET FOR EMERGENCIES: Two year after a Life Flight facility was built at the Dallesport Airport, the service remains ready to fly and help in the worst of emergencies.

Living in Goldendale can be great: world class scenery, clean air, dark skies. Sometimes, however, one misses the amenities of the big city. Like if you are out chasing cows in the back 40 and get chest pain. Or your child becomes deathly ill in the middle of the night.

That is when Life Flight Network can literally become a life saver. Life Flight Network is a nonprofit organization, associated with Providence Health, Legacy Emanuel Medical Center, Oregon Health Sciences University, and St. Alphonsus Medical System. They have a system of fixed wing and rotary wing aircraft stationed around the Northwest, including locally, at Dallesport, Washington. A pilot, a Critical Care Flight Nurse, and a Critical Care Flight Paramedic are on call, at the airport, 24/7.

According to Regional Vice President Michael Wiemer, aircraft are able to take off in under eight minutes. On board, the medical personnel provide an ICU level of care to one patient. If there is more than one patient, additional aircraft can be sent.

With pilots on 12-hour shifts and medical personnel on 24-hour shifts, the two-year-old facility features a spacious living area, with kitchen and bedrooms. There are numerous offices for personnel and a medical space where they keep a supply of O negative blood, which can be used on all in case of emergency. There are large hangars where aircraft are kept.

Life Flight Network provides service in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, and Montana, with ability to transport patients throughout the country.

For an annual membership fee of $69, you, your spouse/domestic partner, and any dependents on your tax return can be included. Elderly and disabled family members in the same household may also be included. Life Flight provides service to all, regardless of ability to pay, as it has a generous endowment. Life Flight Network accepts insurance as payment in full.

If you become ill or injured, call 911. Emergency personnel will make the determination if Life Flight Network is medically necessary. If yes, they will make arrangements for you. Where you are taken by Life Flight Network will depend on your medical problem, the urgency of the problem, and availability of a receiving hospital and doctor. There are two Level 1 Trauma Centers in the area, both located in Portland. OHSU and Legacy Emanuel Hospitals offer the most advanced care for trauma available. They also offer outstanding care for medical problems.

Want more information or to become a member on Life Flight Network? Check out their website at <http://www.lifeflight.org> or call them at (503) 678-4370 or (800)-982-9299.

Book Review

By Judy Bane

"The Pioneer Woman Cooks: Recipes from an Accidental Country Girl" by Ree Drummond

Paula Deen meets Erma Bombeck in The Pioneer Woman Cooks, Ree Drummond's spirited, homespun cookbook. Drummond colorfully traces her transition from city life to ranch wife through recipes, photos, and pithy commentary based on her popular, award-winning blog, Confessions of a Pioneer Woman, and whips up delicious, satisfying meals for cowboys and cowgirls alike made from simple, widely available ingredients. The Pioneer Woman Cooks—and with these "Recipes from an Accidental Country Girl," she pleases the palate and tickles the funny bone at the same time.

I discovered Ree Drummond through her blog some years ago and when she put out her first cookbook, I was hooked. Her cookbooks are colorful, the photography is beautiful and her stories are so entertaining.

Her recipes are simple and family friendly, using ingredients you would find readily in your pantry.

She has built an empire around her cooking, with a weekly cooking show and numerous guest appearances. The cooking show is filmed on her families remote Oklahoma cattle ranch, with her husband, kids and cowboys as recurring characters. She also wrote a book about how she and her husband met and married, which was a rousing romp through their courtship.

She also writes children's books, with her beloved Basset Hound, Charlie, as the main character. Charlie has gone to the Great Cow Pen in the sky now, but he lives on in these charming picture books.

I urge you to check out some of Ree's books from our library and I'm sure some of you will want to own her cookbooks. A down home writer who entertains as she enriches your life with fun and food.

Celebrate Women's History Month: Centennial of Suffrage with Cece Otto

March 21, 1pm – 2pm

In 1920, the United States ratified the 19th Amendment, officially granting women the right to vote. As she did in The Songs of World War I, Cece is marking this milestone with an all-new American Songline program that tells the story of the Women's Suffrage Movement through song. Centennial of Suffrage reaches back to the period following the Civil War, when pioneering women launched a wide-ranging reform movement that would bear fruit in many aspects of American life, most notably in the struggle for women's enfranchisement. Hear the songs that capture the mood of Americans on both sides of the suffrage debate, and learn about the iconic women who fought for their most fundamental political rights. Join us on Saturday, March 21st at 1pm for this amazing performance as we celebrate Women's History Month. This is a free event for all ages.

Ice Cream Sales Coordinator WANTED

The Dallesport Community Council has donated to a number of worthy causes in our community through the sale of ice cream at several summer events in the area. The people that used to run the ice cream sales are no longer able to do this. We really need someone to step up from the community to house our trailer, power our freezer, store our ice cream, and manage the sales at local venues. Without that person or persons, we will be hard pressed to have any money to give away to good causes every year. Please contact Council Chairman Don McDermott if this sounds like something you would enjoy doing for your community. 509-767-2308 nod@gorge.net

New Construction at the Airport

Columbia Gorge Regional Airport welcomes the Pacific Coast Cherry Packers LLC. They are constructing and will operate a cherry receiving, hydro cooling, and shipping facility. Driveways, access roads, and parking will be included. The concrete tilt-up building will be about 7,800SF. The site is located within a portion of Section 34, T2N, R13E, W.M., Klickitat County, WA, on Lots 14 and 15 of the Columbia Gorge Regional Airport Business Park at Dallesport.

KLASAC Updates

The KLASAC Executive Board meeting will be held March 18th. from 5 - 6:30 pm. The organization is asking parents and community members to attend meetings. Please consider volunteering!

Seven of our youth from Klickitat and Lyle just attended a Youth Advocacy training where they had the opportunity to learn speaking skills and how to advocate and make a difference in issues that are important to them. They met Representative Paul Harris and had a chance to ask him questions. The youth are excited to use some of these skills at an upcoming Commissioners meeting where they will be discussing the Youth Summit that we are hoping to plan and participate in during April 2020. ## Staying Healthy

Hand-washing with soap and water continues to be a top recommendation to protect against viruses, since the abrasiveness of soap helps remove infectious particles from the hands. Experts say that commonly worn surgical masks aren't very effective protection. A heavy-duty mask called an N95 respirator is considerably better protection, but it is uncomfortable to wear and can make breathing more difficult.

Gorge STEM Hub Grant Funds Vinyl Cutter for Lyle Shop Students

It's a challenge to educate young people for a world becoming ever more technologically complex. Manufacturing offers a number of specialized high-tech positions that pay well and generally require no more than a two-year post-high school education.

But, the key is to help students get enough exposure that they can visualize themselves performing the tasks, so they will pursue the training they need.

This fall, Lyle CTE/Shop teacher Del Medenbach realized that his students had access to a CAD, a computer-aided design program, but still weren't able to see a real-world application of their design.

He applied for and received a $780 grant from Columbia Gorge STEM Hub to buy a vinyl cutter for the shop, as well as a computer and a specialized program that communicates between CAD and the vinyl cutter. His students now can take images found on the internet, edit them in CAD, and then convert the image into vectors (lines computers can understand).

From there, the image is fed into the vinyl cutter and automatically cut into a sheet of vinyl. After the vinyl cutter disgorges the sheet of vinyl, the student manually separates the design from the rest of the sheet and can apply it to a surface of their choice.

The vinyl cutter is just one version of CNC (Computer Numeric Control) technology, which is also used to precision-cut wood, plastic, and plate steel to manufacture all kinds of common items, including machine parts, structural components, furniture and even art.

Medenbach notes that students who enjoy this type of work could find a lot of opportunities waiting in the work world, including aerospace manufacturing plants, where carbon-fiber sheets are cut out in much the same way, before being bonded together to form parts of an aircraft.

As a result of this generous gift from Columbia Gorge STEM Hub, Lyle Secondary School students are gaining insights into future career opportunities and having some fun in the process.

Home Reading Program Kicks Off on March 2, Read Across America Day

"The more that you read, the more things you will know. The more that you learn, the more places you'll go!" – Dr. Seuss

Dr. Seuss had it right. A child's ability to read makes a big impact on their future success. When you read with a child, you help increase their reading skills and speed, while building a valuable life-long skill.

This year, Dallesport Elementary will celebrate Read Across America Day (formerly known as Dr. Seuss Day) on March 5. The cafeteria will serve green eggs and ham for breakfast, there will be guest readers in our classrooms, an assembly, and everyone dressed in either their pajamas or a crazy hat!

Teachers are kicking off a program to encourage kids from pre-kindergarten to 5th grade to read at home, whether on their own or with someone else. What will this new home reading program look like? It's simple: Students should read at home 20 minutes a day, five times a week, for the rest of the year. Each child will get a book bag from the school, filled with a book (or two), a reading log, and tips for adults on fun ways to check in with the child about their reading.

Book bags will go home on Fridays, and should come back to the school every Friday morning so we can refresh the contents.

Along the way, there will be incentives for both individual students and the classes who read the most at home. Parents of our pre-k and kindergartners, so that your little ones develop familiarity with books and words. This builds important skills to prepare them to read on their own.

Our staff encourages EVERYONE to pick up a book and read to a child; that means parents, grandparents, older siblings, aunts and uncles! Whether it's a beloved classic or something new and exciting, you'll be spreading the joy of reading.

By the way, did you know that, for every hour a person spends reading (either independently or being read aloud to), his/her lifetime earning potential goes up considerably? For a time investment of approximately 87 hours a year (20 minutes a day for 5 days a week), you can increase your child's ability to support him or herself in the future considerably.

Best of all, reading time gives parents a chance to give their child some undivided attention while both of you enjoy a great story. Be sure to set aside your cell phone and bring out your silly side – kids love it!

Pi Day History

March 14, 2020

Pi Day celebrates the mathematical constant (pi), 3.141592653... Pi is the ratio between the circumference (the distance around the circle) and diameter (the distance of a straight line that goes through the center of a circle). Pi is a constant, therefore it will be the same for circles of all sizes. Pi is a special number due to its infinite and patternless nature, meaning that the digits after the decimal point never repeat themselves in a specific pattern.

Pi Day celebrations originated in 1988 at the San Francisco Exploratorium when Larry Shaw, a physicist at the Exploratorium, organized the first Pi Day. It was held on March 14th (3/14), given that the first digits of Pi are 3.14. Celebrations at the Exploratorium included taking young museum visitors on a parade to the Pi Shrine, which is a round brass plaque fixed on the floor of the museum and serving fruit pies to visitors. Since then, Pi Day celebrations have spread both nationally and globally. On March 12, 2009, the U.S. House of Representatives recognized March 14, 2009 as National Pi Day.
