'50 acres forever': Gorge Commission votes to limit expanding urban areas

By Rodger Nichols, Columbia River Gorge Commission

Aug 19, 2020

Citizens of towns located in the Columbia River Gorge National Scenic Area had better get used to the size they are, because they won't be getting bigger anytime soon. In a two-day meeting of the Columbia River Gorge Commission Aug. 11-12, a series of narrow votes resulted in a set of new requirements that make it virtually impossible for towns to expand their urban area boundaries. If towns somehow manage to jump through all the new regulatory hoops, they are limited to 20 acres at a time and a maximum total of 50 acres forever.

These are just a few of the multiple changes and edits to the 500-page Management Plan that governs how the Gorge Commission and the Forest Service administer the Scenic Area.

Many of the changes came despite opposing testimony from Wasco, Klickitat and Skamania counties, the cities of The Dalles and Cascade Locks, and the Ports of The Dalles and Skamania County. Commissioners who voted for harder qualifications even ignored the comments of the Oregon Department of Land Conservation and Development, the agency in charge of planning for the whole state of Oregon, that "this policy is disproportionately burdensome on Gorge communities on the south side of the river."

The resulting changes further perpetuate what Oregon cities and counties perceive as a historic inequity dating back to the implementation of the National Scenic Area Act more than a third of a century ago. The Act was passed in 1986, but in 1973, Oregon passed Senate Bill 100, which required land use planning throughout the state. Part of that was to establish "urban growth boundaries," or UGBs. The idea was to define an area outside existing city limits that would have enough territory to satisfy projected needs for residential, commercial and industrial growth for 20 years. Cities could expand into that area without having to appeal to state for permission to do so,

When the National Scenic Area Act passed, Oregon had UGBs around every city in the state, including four that happened to lie within the borders of the new scenic area — The Dalles, Mosier, Hood River and Cascade Locks. The Act included maps depicting what they called "urban area boundaries," or UABs. On the Oregon side, the UABs were designed to mostly conform to the established UGBs. On the Washington side, however, there were no pre-established areas for cities to grow, so the Congressional aides drawing up the maps for the Scenic Area suggested to towns and communities on the Washington side to think big, suggesting they plan for a 75-year supply. They even gave urban area boundaries to four communities that don't even have incorporated cities — Carson, Home Valley, Wishram and Dallesport, while ignoring communities on the Oregon side that didn't have incorporated cities — Celilo Village, Rowena, Dodson-Warrendale and Corbett.

The National Scenic Area Act did recognize that cities had a legitimate reason to grow, and empowered the Gorge Commission to adjust the UABs, but only if such adjustment is "minor," without defining minor. Anything beyond that literally requires an Act of Congress. The new adjustments to the Management Plan including a definition of minor as one percent of the acreage already in the urban area, or 20 acres, whichever is smaller. Originally, another change added that the 20 acre, one percent rule would be the total expansion allowed forever. At the last minute, that was expanded to 50 acres or 2 percent as a lifetime limit, but each application could only be for 20 acres or one percent. To get the full 50 acres, cities would have to apply three different times, at enormous cost and expense.

Another addition was the requirement that cities would be required to consider nearby areas for expansion — i.e. The Dalles could satisfy its need for more housing, more commercial land and more industrial land in Dallesport. However, that does not help The Dalles grow — people in Dallesport live in, and pay taxes to, Klickitat County and the State of Washington, not to The Dalles. They may shop over here, but with no sales tax, that doesn't benefit local government, only local store owners. Providing more commercial growth in Dallesport doesn't benefit The Dalles either, because people from The Dalles aren't going to cross the bridge, drive seven miles and pay a sales tax. Industrial development may increase employment, but Oregon residents still have to pay Oregon income tax on money they earn, whether it comes from out of state or not.

The implication is that the Dallesport urban area would have to fill up before The Dalles could expand. And since the Dallesport urban area is the largest in the Gorge at 6,427 acres, it limits even the possibility of applying for local expansion for the foreseeable future.

"While I'm not surprised, I'm very disappointed," said Wasco County Commission Chair Scott Hege, "particularly in the fact that we're not able to have the same ability to grow as the other communities in the state. That really puts us at a disadvantage."

Book Review By Judy Bane "Tear It Down" by Nick Petrie

In the new edge-of-your-seat adventure from national bestselling author Nick Petrie, Peter Ash pursues one case--and stumbles into another--in the City of the Blues.

Iraq war veteran Peter Ash is restless in the home he shares with June Cassidy in Washington State. June knows Peter needs to be on the move, so she sends him to Memphis to help her friend Wanda Wyatt, a photographer and war correspondent who's been receiving peculiar threats. When Peter arrives in Memphis, however, he finds the situation has gone downhill fast--someone has just driven a dump truck into Wanda's living room. But neither Wanda nor Peter can figure out why.

At the same time, a young homeless street musician finds himself roped into a plan to rob a jewelry store. The heist doesn't go as planned, and the young man finds himself holding a sack full of Rolexes and running for his life. When his getaway car breaks down, he steals a new one at gunpoint--Peter's 1968 green Chevrolet pickup truck.

Peter likes the skinny kid's smarts and attitude, but he soon discovers that the desperate musician is in far worse trouble than he knows. And Wanda's troubles are only beginning. Peter finds himself stuck between Memphis gangsters--looking for Rolexes and revenge--and a Mississippi ex-con and his hog-butcher brother looking for a valuable piece of family history that goes all the way back to the Civil War.

Read a Book Day

Read a Book Day is Sept. 6th. Take time out of your busy life, and relax with a good book. Cozy up on a chair, indoors or out. It doesn't matter where you read that book, as long as you can do so in a comfortable manner. If you doze off along the way, we won't tell anyone.

Reading is a great lifetime hobby. It offers so many positive attributes. It's relaxing and therapeutic. It's educational. It's entertaining. And, a whole lot of other good things, too.

If you have young children, or elderly people in your home, take the time to read a book to them today. It is a wonderful time to bond with them and it creates pleasant, lasting memories.

First day of school Tuesday September 8th.

1. Students will be required to participate in class at the scheduled times on their remote instructions days. Attendance will be taken and recorded. Accommodations will be made for students who do not have and cannot get sufficient bandwidth.

2. We are moving to a trimester schedule this year, with five classes per semester. This will allow students to complete one year's worth of most subjects in two semesters and have time for more electives. It will also allow time for those who are deficient in credits to make them up.

3. We are better prepared technologically to provide remote instruction than we were last spring. Teachers have more experience and are getting additional training during the last full week of August.

4. To allow time for that training before the start of the school year, we have changed the first day of school to Tuesday September 8th.

Read more in the letter below or go to our website, www.lyleschools.org. Keep your eye on this page and consider following us so you don't miss any additional announcements - we'll have more details to share as plans get fine-tuned. Continue to watch our website, too.

FEMA announces lost wages grant for Washington

FEMA Administrator Pete Gaynor approved Washington for a FEMA grant under the Lost Wages Assistance program. FEMA's grant funding will allow Washington to provide $300 per week--on top of their regular unemployment benefit--to those unemployed due to COVID-19. FEMA will work with Washington Gov. Jay Inslee to implement a system to make this funding available to Washington residents.

On Aug. 8, 2020, President Donald Trump made available up to $44 billion from FEMA's Disaster Relief Fund to provide financial assistance to Americans who have lost wages due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Today, the state of Washington agreed to administer a lost wages program for its citizens who are unemployed due to COVID-19.

FEMA is working with the governors of additional states who agree to administer a lost wages program to bring financial relief to unemployed Americans.

Election Results

The Office of the Secretary of State certified Washington's Aug. 4 Primary Election, in which more than 2.51 million people voted. That is 54.44 percent of the registered voters, and the highest turnout since 1964.

The Klickitat County primary election results were certified on Aug. 18, and the voter turnout was 58.34 percent. Out of 15,000 registered voters in the county, 8,751 people voted.

Secretary of state issues new postage rule for Washington ballots

Under the new rule, at least 15 days before the election, any replacement ballots or ballots for newly registered voters would be mailed with first-class postage.

Washington Secretary of State Kim Wyman issued an emergency rule change Wednesday that requires county officials to use first-class mail at least 15 days before Election Day when sending ballots to voters in October.

By law, ballots must be sent to voters no later than Oct. 16, with the initial mailing sent at a nonprofit bulk rate, which guarantees a delivery time between three and 10 days.

Under the new rule, at least 15 days before the election, any replacement ballots or ballots for newly registered voters would be mailed with first-class postage, with a delivery window between two and five days.

"Closer to Election Day, many counties throughout Washington already switch over to First Class mail to ensure voters receive materials with enough time to cast their ballots," said Wyman. "This will provide more consistency statewide, and give voters some peace of mind heading into the Nov. 3 General Election."

The United States Postal Service recommended that voters mail their ballots a week before the election.

Voters in Washington state do not need to use a stamp when returning their ballot by mail. Ballots must be postmarked no later than election day. Residents can also return their ballot at one of the nearly 500 ballot drop boxes located across the state.

Lyle Food Bank

Sept. 2nd. and 16th. 2020

With local volunteers providing the labor, the newest location of a WAGAP food bank currently operates as a drive-through, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4-6 p.m., on the first and third Wednesdays of the month at the Lyle Activity Center, at the intersection of Highway 14 and Third Street.

Applications to receive monthly food will be available at the Pantry during open hours. You can sign up and receive your monthly food boxes on the same day. You may also call 509-281-0884.

Each month a box of non-perishables, a box of produce, and a box of refrigerated goods will be distributed to each participant. There will be some choice available with certain distributed items.

During the COVID-19 restrictions, the food bank will be run as a drive-thru. Cars can turn up Fourth Street and then line up and park along Klickitat Street and wait for service. All staff will be wearing masks and taking the required precautions. Volunteer staff would appreciate your returning that favor by keeping the physical distance and following mask-wearing rules when you arrive.

If it's difficult for you to get to the food bank during on these days/times, you can call to let organizers know someone else will be picking up on your behalf. In limited instances, we may have a volunteer willing to deliver to your door until you are able to make arrangements or if you have a permanent handicap. Please be patient with us - we will do our best.

The Lyle Food Bank is looking for more volunteers; if you'd like to participate, or wish to discuss your specific needs, please call 509-281-0884.

The photo below is a peek at what our hard working volunteers did for our successful distribution today. We are fortunate to receive support from WAGAP, our Lyle Lions Club and all of you that have helped! Keep those donations coming! We would love to distribute any extras you may have especially as our fruits and vegetable gardens are coming in. We are also always in need of brown grocery bags. All you chicken lovers with extra eggs, we can use them! If you have any tips for donations, we have volunteers who can help glean and or pick up. Our goal is that no one in our community goes hungry in these difficult times.

You can contact us by leaving a message 509-281-0884, email us lylefoodbank@wagap.org

If you would like to donate money, please make checks payable to WAGAP with "Lyle Good Food Pantry" indicated on the memo line. Checks should be sent to Lyle Good Food, PO Box 364, Lyle, WA 98635. Any donations made to Lyle Good Food are for the exclusive use of our neighborhood pantry. We are tax deductible and all donations will receive a receipt and happy thank you ☺

Spread the word that our next distribution dates are September 2 and 16th. The hours are 10-1 and 4-6pm.

LYLE SCHOOL DISTRICT #406

Lyle Schools Start of School Year Update

Our first week of school will now be dedicated to student/family conferences with teachers, during which parents or guardians will be able to check out a new laptop for each child and go through some training in the technology they will need to be able to use this year. Instruction will begin on Tuesday, September 8.

In order to set up students and families for success, Lyle Schools administrators and teachers believe it's important to make time for families to meet classroom teachers. During those meetings, every student will receive a laptop from the district, even if they have their own at home. This will ensure they are set up correctly to work with the district's technology). They'll also get some quick instruction on how to log in and join classes.

This "soft start" to the school year will take place during the week of August 31 through September 4, with instruction beginning Tuesday, September 8. These meetings will look very similar to parent/teacher conferences and will allow the time needed for staff to ensure we are all ready to hit the ground running.

During the week of August 24 through 28, parents will receive a call from the school to schedule time to meet with teachers. If they don't receive a call by Thursday, August 27, they're asked to contact the school to set up a meeting. Call 509-365-2211, ext. 120.

The health department guidelines limiting the number of people in a room came into play in this decision, as well. Meeting times had to be spread throughout the entire week instead of consolidated into a more traditional open house.

There have been several other last-minute changes in how school will start this year:

- Because of rising COVID-19 activity in the county, the health department directed the district to open with small groups only in each classroom. To meet these requirements, Lyle is currently limited to five individuals per room.

- This means staff will need to use every spare space in the school in order to meet that requirement. It also means a decrease in the number of times a student can be at school each week – from two times to just one.

- Students will be using technology to participate in class REMOTELY four days a week.

As we gear up for the beginning of the school year, we must do what is best for all students, but especially those with the highest educational and support needs.

Our goal is to make the 2020-2021 school year as successful as possible, whether students are physically in the school classroom or learning at home. We are working closely with the Department of Health to safely resume instruction and learning during this extraordinary time.

The district wants to thank families for their patience and for extending us grace as we navigate the restarting school in 2020-2021.

If you have questions, feel free to email support@lyleschools.org or call the office. Or check the district website at www.lyleschools.org

Gorge Grown Mobile Market

The Mobile Farmers Market every Friday, 4-6pm at the Lyle Activity Center. We're bringing you SAFE, fresh, local food that supports our Gorge farming economy.

The market will look very different this year with COVID-19 safety precautions in place:

-Please plan on wearing a mask to keep our staff and others safe.

-Keep a 6 ft distance from everyone at all times.

-Do not come if you are feeling unwell or might have been exposed to COVID-19.

-Send one family member to shop, and offer to shop for your neighbors to minimize market traffic. Until things are back to normal, THIS NOT A LEISURELY SOCIAL EVENT!

To protect you: we will have one staff person to handle food and shop for you, and another to handle all transactions. Farmers markets are designated as essential services, and are much safer than the grocery store.

Remember, if you use your EBT/SNAP card (aka food stamps) at the market we will give you an extra, free $5 to spend! We also take Credit/Debit cards and cash.

'Wheels of Hope' nominations sought

The radio stations of Bicoastal Media, Gills Point S Tire and Auto, Ray Schultens Motors, Washington Gorge Action Program and Columbia Veterinary Hospital are teaming up for the sixth year to help a Columbia Gorge family in need.

"Wheels of Hope" will provide a struggling family lacking transportation options a 2014 Ford Focus to help them meet their daily travel needs.

Nominations of deserving families can be made at Gorgeradio.com and on-site at special Wheels of Hope vehicle stops from now through late October. A panel of judges made up of representatives from Bicoastal Media, sponsors and representatives of Human Service agencies involved in helping families will select the family to receive the vehicle, which will be awarded around Nov. 1.

In addition, Michelob Ultra and Walmart of Hood River will "Pay It Forward" by donating $1,000 to local non-profit organizations or runner up entries.

Wheels of Hope is also supported by Maupin's Stoves and Spas, The Dalles Fruit Company, A Kidz Dental Zone, Crestline Construction, NW Natural, Gorge Granite Works, One Community Health, Jones Trucking and Implement, Mid-Columbia Mobile Propane, Casa El Mirador, Downey Sleep Center, Google, Hood River Cherry Company, Holly Gove EXP Realty, The Dalles Holiday Inn Express, Bustos & Hernandez Construction, and Infinite Graphix.
