Neon to brighten future of TD Downtown

By Tom Peterson

Some creative minds will put a cool new twist on The Dalles downtown on Monday, Jan. 11.

Just watch for Joe Gibson's cranes and swinging neon signs.

Four of the glowing classics will go up at different sites with the intention of creating beauty and uniqueness to The Dalles central core that will entice people to stop, walk, shop, imbibe and dine.

Or just ooh and aah.

Like Pulpit Rock and St. Peter's Landmark, the signs intend to offer a unique one-of-a-kind feel to The Dalles.

"This definitely plays on our historical side," said Sarah Mall with The Dalles Mainstreet, which received the grant to do the work. "It brings some more artistry and vibrancy to downtown along with the murals we're trying to restore."

David Benko, who established the National Neon Sign Museum in the former Elks Building in The Dalles was pivotal in getting the project completed. Photo by global-travel-info.com

The signs which will be strategically placed, are intended to draw the eye and entice travelers and locals alike to adventure downtown and have lunch and visit a boutique.

"Bringing neon signs and historical restorations to the buildings is important," Mall said. "It brings some beauty to them so the downtown has this wonderful feel to it."

The Flying A Service sign will be mounted to the building at 306 Court Street.

The local historic Sears sign will be attached to the Sunshine Mill at 323 E. Second St.

The Jefferson Hall sign is going on the NE corner of the Mid-Columbia Medical Center office building at 323 E. Second St.

The Dog n Suds sign is going on the back of the Last Stop Saloon building, 209 E. Second St.

The $25,000 grant for the work was awarded by the National Main Street Center as a subsidiary of the National Trust for Historic Preservation, Mall said.

The money went to the cost of restoring the signs, paperwork, permits, and hardware for installation. Joe Gibson of Ramsay Signs has generously offered to do the crane installations free of charge, which was critical in making this project happen in spite of the pandemic, Mall said.

"You can't miss them," Mall added "This will get downtown hyped and excited. We are particularly happy everyone will be able to see them from the freeway so people will know what a beautiful downtown we have."

Mall gave a special thanks to City of The Dalles personnel, including City Manager Julie Krueger and Dave Anderson of Public Works for bringing the project to completion.

On a side note, the vintage signs are going up on the 110th anniversary of both the arrival of the neon tube to the United States and the start of the Ramsay Signs company.

Remember to Vote by February 9, 2021

Lyle School District's continuation levy is on your ballot, and it only takes a moment to mark it and drop it in the drop box across from the post office. If you need information, there's more on the district website at www.lyleschools.org. Click on one of the two links on the main page to go to the levy page.

Remember two things: Lyle School has been back to in-person instruction since school started in September, and we've been operating safely. Some students are on campus five days a week (including our Kindergarten and first graders). Some are on campus fewer days. It depends on how many students in a particular class.

But if they aren't on campus, they are still expected to join their class via the technology we've provided, and at the same time everyone else is there.

The second thing? Don't forget this levy is for 2022 and 2023, when, we presume, we will be back to fully in-person learning as this pandemic is brought under control.

The Low Down on the Tax Rate

Let's face it, school financing is complicated. That includes levies. If you're curious why school districts talk about "approximate" rates, read on.

By Washington state law, school districts ask for a total amount in levy collections from their community for a specific time period.

For example, Lyle School District is asking for $700,000 in local levy funds for each of two years, 2022 and 2023, the same amount we are currently authorized to collect in 2021. But, in order for voters to understand how much the levy will cost them personally, we estimate the tax rate based on estimated growth in property values and the number of students we have currently.

Because of our small size, the state limits our levy collections to the equivalent of $2,500 per student enrolled in the previous year. (Yes, this is new in the past three years. If you'd like to know more about it, go to our website, click through to levy information and select Frequently asked Questions.)

This has resulted in a large reduction in our levy collections since before 2018. In fact, the estimated tax rate for 2022 and 2023 is less than half of the tax rate in 2014 and 2015.

Other public entities, like fire districts, ask for a levy tax rate, not a set amount. If property values increase, they collect more. School districts do not. We will collect approximately the same amount. In fact, our taxpayers will see a decrease in the school tax rate if property values rise.

VOTE

Oh No! We Made a Mistake on Our Levy Mailer

Like we said, this tax rate business is confusing, even for us. In the levy mailer voters received last week, we mentioned the tax rate per "$100,000" value of a home. This was incorrect. Levy tax rates are calculated by $1,000 value.

But the examples provided in the flyer of the cost to a homeowner whose house is worth $325,000 or $350,000 ARE correct. (See the photo)

Want to know how to calculate how much the levy will cost you in 2022 and 2023? Here's the formula:

1. Find your assessed valuation. The county sends these to property owners every year.

2. Drop the last three numbers of your assessed valuation. Round up to the closest thousand. So, for a home worth $324,900, round up to $325,000 and drop the zeros.

3. Multiply that number by the tax rate. So, using our example, 325 multiplied by 1.64, we determined the owner of a house worth $325,000 in 2022 will pay $533 per year in local levy taxes. We divided 533 by 12 to determine a monthly cost -- $44.41 -- and by 52 to determine the weekly cost - $10.25.

Community Council Report

by Angie Jenkins

Most of the Dallesport-Murdock Community Council meeting, that was held on Thursday January 14, 2021 using Zoom at 6pm, had to do with the upcoming school levy. Several members of the school board attended the meeting and discussed what the school levy is in regards to.

The current levy expires this year and this would be a replacement for the existing. The amount is based on property evaluation. $1.64 in 2022 and $1.59 in 2023. An example of this would be for $325,000 value at $1.64 would be a potential increase of $41.00/month. There is a need to compensate 13% of the current operating budget. This would be financially covering what is not covered by the annual state budget.

Annual student enrollment has decreased this school year down to 215-220 students. Some examples of items that might need to be supplemented are transportation costs, athletics expenses, or after-school programs. The election will be February 9. Additional information sent out by mail.

The next scheduled Zoom meeting for the Dallesport-Murdock Community Council is Thursday February 11, 2021 at 6pm.

Why You Still Need to Wear a Mask After Getting the COVID-19 Vaccine

Key takeaways:

You should still wear your mask and keep your distance from others after you have been vaccinated.

We don't know yet how well the COVID-19 vaccines reduce the spread of the virus.

Almost 9 million people in the U.S. have received at least one dose of a COVID-19 vaccination, and that number is growing daily. While this is promising, we still need to use caution to prevent spreading infection. Of course, this means social distancing, washing your hands, and wearing a mask. But you might be wondering if all that is necessary after you get vaccinated. Keep reading to learn more.

Do I need to wear my mask and social distance after the first dose?

Yes. The currently approved vaccines are designed to be given as two doses. You are not considered fully vaccinated until after your second dose. It is possible to get sick between doses.

Do I need to wear my mask and social distance after the second dose?

Yes. The available vaccines are expected to be highly effective, but they're not perfect. Additionally, it usually takes your body at least a few weeks to build immunity after receiving the vaccine.

Also, experts still aren't sure if the vaccines will prevent spread of the infection. The vaccine studies looked at how well the vaccines prevented symptomatic disease, but not asymptomatic infections or transmission.

In other words, if you're vaccinated, you are more likely to be protected from severe disease, but you could still carry it and pass it along to others.

We already know that wearing masks can reduce virus transmission greatly. That's why it's important to keep your mouth and nose covered and keep your distance for now.

Good Food Pantry

Great news! WAGAP has extended our funding for a full year, through 2021. It is a huge relief to know that we can confidently move ahead with dreams and plans of what Good Food can become. However, a very important part of the 2021 funding rests on the assurance that we will continue to be able to staff our shifts adequately. If you've been thinking about volunteering, now would be a good time to get in touch! It is really not a time-consuming commitment, but it does require reliability. First and Third Wednesdays of each month, shifts are available between 9am and 4:30pm. On one Monday each month, there is a large delivery of food that requires some heavy lifting, between 10am and noon. And, finally, we have little jobs that crop up throughout the month: picking up some food, repackaging some donations, etc. Call Kate at 509-281-0884 for more information.

And here's even more good news:

The hopes we have for bringing more social services to Lyle through Good Food will also be strengthened by WAGAP. Leslie Naramore, WAGAP's Executive Director, has shared their intention to bring more of their programs to the Lyle Activity Center.

Thank you to all our donors from 2020. You know who you are, and we are so very grateful for your kind donations of cash, eggs, produce, canned goods, and so much more.

Donation checks can be mailed to WAGAP, PO Box 805, Bingen WA 98605 and please write Lyle Good Food Pantry in the memo line. You can also set up recurring donations (or a single time) through a link from the WAGAP website. Thank you!

The Pantry was giving out duck eggs from a local community member in January, a first for us! As a satellite of WAGAP, we receive boxes of staples and a nice assortment of winter veggies.

As we look outside, the summer gardens and autumn harvest are now covered in snow but any extra food that you can spare from your Pantry goes directly back to our community. We are always on the lookout for fresh eggs! We can always use clean brown bags, food staples or checks! Every donation goes directly out to our community. You can make donations during our hours of operation or call and leave a message to arrange a pick up or to volunteer at 509-281-0884.

A special thank you to Gorge Greens for putting us on your list to share in your surplus of delicious microgreens when they become available. We are very excited for this partnership and the opportunity to provide such delicious nutrition to our neighbors in Lyle! A shout out to George Bentz for your craftsmanship and kindness in co-designing our new Good Food Open street signs. It is so wonderful to have our neighbors step up and lend a hand.

Woman Narrowly Escapes RV Fire in Dallesport

Dallesport, WA— An RV fire at Columbia Hills RV Park in Dallesport, Washington occurred at around 10:30 on the morning of January 14th, 2021.

The resident of the RV, a middle-aged woman, was napping inside when the RV caught fire. She was woken up from her nap by the smoke. Neighbors who witnessed the incident say they first noticed something was wrong when they saw her laying on the ground calling for help next to the burning RV.

One neighbor grabbed a hose and started trying to put the fire out. Isela Luna, heard the woman calling and rushed over to help her get away from the fire. The woman had inhaled a lot of smoke and needed Luna's help moving away from the burning RV. Luna then called an ambulance and then called her partner Tyler Luna, who was at work at The Dalles Iron Works.

"I told him he needed to get here now," said Isela Luna.

Several cars and another nearby RV were dangerously close to also being destroyed in the fire. Luna said "I was asking does anybody have a hitch? We live in an RV park right? And nobody had one. So I called Tyler." Within minutes, Tyler Luna arrived on the scene and asked for keys to begin moving three of the nearby cars to a safe distance from the fire. The keys for the vehicles were unfortunately inside the burning RV. Tyler didn't hesitate, he began pulling the cars out of the way with his truck. But it was too late to prevent further damage to another RV which was parked close to the still burning one.

Luna also helped the woman whose RV was burning to call Michael Bates, the owner of the RV she was staying in, to tell him what was happening. Bates is the owner of both RV's which were damaged in the fire.

Dallesport Fire and EMS arrived on the scene and began to put out the fire and attend to the woman who had narrowly escaped the RV fire.

Brad Swing of Dallesport Fire, which is a volunteer fire fighting organization, said the fire was likely started by a propane tank or maybe a plug-in heater, as they had localized the start of the fire to the front of the RV.

"It was burning to the ground when we got here, so the only thing we were able to do was to put it out. It was roaring, just a total loss," said Swing.

The owner of Columbia Hills RV park, Dennis Eisleand, was also on the scene. He said that he'd seen the smoke from his house and had rushed over.

"I got here probably five minutes after I saw the smoke. When I got here I told everybody to stay back, propane tanks can explode so I didn't want anybody to get hurt." Eisleand said that this was the second RV fire he's seen in the past 25 years. "But unfortunately these RVs go up so fast. You've only got about five minutes to get out."

Michael Bates arrived shortly after crews had put the fire out, in just under an hour the RV had gone from a home to something completely unrecognizable. "She called me first, from inside the trailer, panicking out, and I told her to get out of there but she evidently couldn't. Not sure how she got out." Bates said the two were good friends and then went to check on her to make sure she was okay.

Bates also said neither trailer was insured. Luna said she was helping Bates to start a GoFundMe.

"This GoFundMe is not an attempt to completely replace everything, but to help ease some of the financial burden that comes with losing your home in a fire. The goal is to start at a modest $5000 to replace the necessities. Food, clothes, beds, etc," reads the GoFundMe page started by Luna for Bates.

"If you are unable to donate, I ask that you share this fundraiser. There are so many RV groups & communities out there, I would love to spread the word to help him out as much as possible." Here is a link to Bates GoFundMe.

LYLE SCHOOL DISTRICT #406

OOPS!

MISTAKE IN OUR BROCHURE.

Right here

To know how much you'll pay, multiply the tax rate by your home's value, without the last three digits. Is it worth $325,000?

Multiply the tax rate - $1.64 - by 325 (drop the zeroes) to get the yearly cost, $533.

IS THIS A NEW TAX?

No. It replaces the current levy that expires at the end of 2021. The district is requesting approval of total collections of up to $700,000 in 2022 and again in 2023... the same amount approved by voters in 2019 for 2020 and 2021. Based on projected property valuations, property owners will pay approximately $1.64 per $1,000 of value of their property in 2022 and $1.59 in 2023. $1,000

WHAT WILL THE PROPOSED LEVY COST THE AVERAGE PROPERTY OWNER?

In 2022, the taxes collected on property valued at $325,000 (an estimated tax rate of $1.64) will equal $44.41 per month, or $10.25 per week.

But this is right!

**Based on per $1,000 value*

TAX RATE AMONG LOWEST IN YEARS

YEAR	LEVY RATE PER $1,000	HOME VALUE	ESTIMATED MONTHLY COST
2022	$1.64	$325,000	$44.41 *
2023	$1.59	$350,000	$46.38 *

Past Graduates

For the past few years, we've arranged for recent graduates to come back to Lyle school for a visit with our seniors, in order to share their perspective on life after graduation. This year, we made use of our classroom technology and invited the grads to participate through TEAMS. ***Editorial note, here: So glad we are able to make this technology available to our students so that they are familiar with it as they make their way into the world of work where it will be expected!***

Back to our story! The grads' advice to seniors primarily focused on the value of skills teachers are trying to instill in students: Time management and study skills, work-life balance, note-taking skills and so on.

What are some of those grads doing?

- * Sidney Rains is studying Communications at Gonzaga University
  - * Joe Machado is a Chemistry major at The Evergreen State College
  - * Emily Robertson is at the University of Idaho studying Animal Science Production with a minor in Business
  - * Alexis Miller is working on a double major in Pre-Law and Political Science at the University of Washington
  - * Zach Miller is enrolled at Western Washington University in Business and Sustainability
  - * Shawyna Dee Spino is working for the Washington Gorge Action Program (WAGAP) and loving her work
